Police break up alien-smuggling ring

TORONTO — Police have cracked what they say was a $50-million alien-smuggling ring, partially financed by the welfare system. The smuggling network charged people up to $18,000 a head and had “brought thousands” of people from Sri Lanka and southern India to Toronto since 1985, police said. Six Toronto men were charged with conspiracy to smuggle aliens into the country. Warrants have been issued for several others.
